

ONE WAS ARRESTED

Vehicle Accident Injures Two Men

Two Dawson Springs men were injured Monday and one was arrested as a result of a collision between a dirt bike and a pickup truck on Beulah Road.

The Hopkins County Sheriff's Office responded to the collision and discovered Zack Skimehorn was driving a truck pulling Daniel Bean on an off-road dirt bike in an attempt to get the bike to start. As Skimehorn and Bean were attempting to pull into the drive of 13435 Beulah Road, Jimmie Patterson, who was also driving in a pickup truck on Beulah Road, swerved to avoid striking Skimehorn's vehicle and struck the dirt bike instead.

Further investigation revealed

Patterson, 38, was impaired at the time the collision occurred. He was placed under arrest and transported to Baptist Health by sheriff's deputies. He was treated and released. He was lodged in the Hopkins County Detention Center, charged with one count of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs/etc.

Bean, 25, was initially transported by ambulance to Baptist Health but was later flown to St. Mary's Medical Center in Evansville, Ind., where he was listed in critical condition.

The sheriff's department was assisted at the scene by the Richland Fire Department and the Kentucky State Police.

Kentucky First Lady To Make Official Trail Town Announcement

The official announcement of Dawson Springs' Trail Town designation will take place tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. The announcement will be made by Kentucky's first lady Jane Beshear.

At 11 a.m., food samples from local restaurants and other providers will be available in the trailhead area.

A reception will follow the announcement with live entertainment by local third-grade students and singer Chad Audas.

Weather permitting, residents and visitors can participate in guided tours of trails at the Jones Keeney Wildlife Management Area, Pennyriple Forest State Resort Park and the Tradewater Blueway Trail.

MORE THAN $12.2 BILLION

Impact Of Tourism Grows In Kentucky

The economic impact of tourism in Kentucky amounted to more than $12.2 billion in 2012. Gov. Steve Beshear and Tourism, Arts and Heritage Secretary Marcheta Sparrow announced Monday. The economic impact figure is a 4.4 percent increase from 2011.

"The Kentucky tourism industry continues to do well, which is good news for all of us," Beshear said. "These figures illustrate the importance of tourism in Kentucky as well as in communities big and small across the commonwealth."

The release of the figures coincides with National Travel and Tourism Week, celebrated May 4-12 this year.

"This is great news for our tourism industry in Kentucky and follows the announcement earlier this year that the water level at Lake Cumberland is going up — which should help tourism in that region," said Sparrow. "We want to build on these successes and keep adding more attractions and jobs for Kentuckians."

As an example, Sparrow cited

USING PAPER AND PENCIL

Suspended Online EOC Testing Affects Dawson Springs Students

After conflicting reports from test vendor ACT about the ability of its technology system to handle online QualityCore® end-of-course testing, the Kentucky Department of Education is moving to paper and pencil tests for the remainder of this school year.

Early last week, about 25 districts reported slow connections and sometimes dropped connections from the ACT Vantage testing system that is used to administer the online end-of-course exams to high school students taking English II, Algebra II, biology and U.S. history. The issues were sporadic and also affected students testing in Alabama and Ohio.

On May 1, the department temporarily suspended online testing. By the next day, ACT had assured KDE that capacity issues with its Vantage testing system had been addressed and testing could resume without problems on Monday.

However, late Friday afternoon ACT sent this statement to KDE: "QualityCore® computer-based testing has been temporarily suspended due to technical issues impacting the system. There will be no computer-based testing on Monday, May 6, 2013. ACT is making every possible effort to resolve the unforeseen issues to resume testing on Tuesday, May 7." The statement concluded, "ACT regrets any inconvenience caused by this system-wide technical problem. Our goal is to ensure students have the best testing experience possible, and we remain committed to providing reliable and accurate data."

KDE Office of Assessment and Accountability Associate Commissioner Ken Draut said, "While ACT is attempting to reopen the online system as soon as possible, KDE believes stabilization of the end-of-course assessment program is now the priority. So, we are going with paper and pencil tests, which many of our districts had already planned to use."

Over the weekend, the department sent an e-mail to district assessment coordinators notifying them of the move to paper and pencil tests. Test materials will arrive in district offices by May 13. However, ACT is prioritizing the shipments based on each district's last instructional day and some districts may receive test materials earlier.

"Our goal is for all students to be tested before the end of the school year, and we believe we will be able to accomplish that," Draut said.

About 60 percent of districts had planned to test at least some students online. The decision on the format of test administration is usually left up to the schools.

According to district assessment coordinator Kent Workman, end-of-course exams had not begun in Dawson Springs at the time the problems occurred. While the test schedule for local students was not affected, the testing method will be. With testing done by paper and pencil, the results will not be instant. In fact, it could be several

'THIS IS THE LONGEST RIDE OF MY LIFE'

Cyclist And His Dog Traveling Cross Country For Cancer

By Carolyn Walker

Another long-distance cyclist visited the city this week. Flynn Donoho, a California resident, left Huntington Beach in January for a cross-country bicycle trip which brought him to Dawson Springs Tuesday morning.

This is not his first long-distance trip. Several years ago, he began bicycling around his home state where he covered approximately 4,000 miles. In 2010 he rode to Charlotte, N.C., to visit the Billy Graham Library.

The 54-year-old has continued to increase his distance each year, but he is not doing so just to prove his physical prowess. In 2011, he decided to put his efforts to work for a cause, and he is now "cycling for cancer."

FLYNN DONOHO looks at a map to determine his route.

In 2011 he traveled the perimeter of the United States but did not go as far north as the New England states. In 2012, he rode to Indiana and back to California, hitting several western states en route. During these trips around the country, he has visited all but nine of the 48 contiguous states, raising money for the American Cancer Society along the way. Now in his third year of fund-raising, he is on his fourth bicycle and third trailer.

Approximately 10 years ago, Donoho lost his wife and two children as a result of his drug and alcohol abuse. He turned to Christianity for help in overcoming his addictions; and after turning his life around, he began looking for ways to help others.

Because his life has been touched by friends and family who have suffered from cancer, he chose the American Cancer Society as his cause.

Donoho worked five years as a caregiver for a former police officer who died of cancer. His stepsister died of breast cancer at the age of 35, and his maternal grandmother also succumbed to the disease at a young age. His sister-in-law is a 3 1/2 year survivor of the disease.

"This is the longest ride of my life," Donoho said of his current trip.

His goal is to travel at least 50 miles a day. Although weather and other variables can easily change that number, Donoho has no deadlines. He is enjoying the country as he rides and does not mind being delayed by interesting people and places. The more time he spends, the more opportunities he

Registration Is In Progress For MCC Summer Program

Registration is in progress at Madisonville Community College for the upcoming summer semester. The four-week intersession classes begin May 14 and continue until final examinations on June 10. The regular six-week summer session begins June 11 and ends with final examinations July 22.

MCC's summer schedule features expanded online course offerings, including general education classes like biology, communications, and English.

"Students taking our local online classes get the best of both worlds," said Dr. Deborah Cox, chief academic affairs officer. "Students get the convenience of online learning with faculty available to meet with them locally if they have questions."

A variety of general education, technical, and allied health classes are available for students.

"We encourage students to apply for both admission and financial aid early in order to beat deadlines and to take advantage of our early registration opportunities," noted Dr. Jay Parrent, dean of student affairs.

State Recognizes Airman Killed In Afghanistan Crash

From
Kentucky Press News
Service

Gov. Steve Beshear recognized the sacrifice of a Kentucky airman who died while supporting Operation Enduring Freedom.

According to the Department of Defense, Staff Sgt. Daniel N. Fannin, 30, of Morehead, died April 27 in the crash of an MC-12 aircraft near Kandahar Airfield, Afghanistan. The cause of the crash is under investigation.

Staff Sgt. Fannin was assigned to the 552nd Operations Support Squadron, Tinker Air Force Base, Okla.

The governor will order flags at all state office buildings to be lowered to half-staff from sunrise to sunset on the day of Staff Sgt. Fannin's interment, for which arrangements are pending.

10 Are Killed In 9 Crashes On State Roads Last Week

Ten people died in nine separate crashes on Kentucky roads from April 29 through May 5.

Two single-fatality motor vehicle crashes occurred in each of the following counties: Clay and Jefferson. One of the Clay County victims and one of the Jefferson County victims were not wearing seat belts.

One single-fatality motor vehicle crash occurred in each of the following counties: Harrison, Lewis, Logan and Metcalfe. The victims in Lewis and Logan counties were not wearing seat belts. The Harrison County and Lewis County crashes involved the suspected use of alcohol.

One double-fatality, motorcycle crash occurred in Warren County. One of the victims was not wearing a helmet.

Through May 5, preliminary statistics indicate 178 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roads during 2013. This is 54 fewer than reported for this time period in 2012.

Of the 149 motor vehicle fatalities, 74 victims were not wearing seat belts. Seven of the 14 motorcycle fatalities were not wearing helmets. The one ATV fatality was not wearing a helmet. One bicycle rider has been killed. Twelve pedestrians have been killed. One fatality involving an animal-drawn vehicle has been re-

Semi Driver Injured In I-69 Single Vehicle Crash

The driver of a semi tractor and trailer was injured Thursday in a single-vehicle accident on I-69 South.

According to the Kentucky State Police, Alva Jones, 39, of Lubbock, Texas, said he took his eyes off the road briefly, attempting to retrieve an item from inside the cab. His vehicle drifted to the right, and the tires dropped off the road, causing the vehicle to exit the travel portion of the interstate. Jones continued driving parallel to the road for a short distance while he attempted to regain control. As he was returning to the road, the vehicle struck a guardrail and overturned, coming to rest on its right side, blocking both southbound lanes.

Trooper Sean Wint was the investigating officer.

MCC Announces Online Dual Credit Opportunities

Beginning this fall, Madisonville Community College will offer high school students with qualifying ACT scores the opportunity to select from the college's extensive list of online courses to earn dual credit. Students taking advantage of this opportunity will earn high school and college credit for completion of the college course through Pathways to College.

MCC president Dr. Judith Rhoads said, "MCC continues to expand ways that high school students in the region can challenge themselves by taking rigorous college classes while in high school. This benefits them by getting an early start on college, providing a more effective transition from high school to college and saving college costs."

Student success in any online class is largely dependent on the maturity of the student. This concern will be addressed through a partnership with participating high schools which will provide instructional support for their students.

"We want to offer these students a hybrid approach involving high school personnel support to make certain students are keeping up in their courses and helping with the logistical issues that can arise in any online class. This will involve students reporting to their library or other designated location at the high school on a regular basis," said Dr. Deborah Cox, chief academic affairs officer.

Classes offered will include an extensive variety of courses in the humanities, math and natural sciences and the social sciences. Students or parents interested in this opportunity should contact the high school guidance offices. They may also contact George Humphreys, MCC Extended Campus Director at 824-1723 or george.humphreys@kctcs.edu.

KENTUCKY IS LEADER IN SOUTH

Forestry Industry Makes Great Economic Impact

By Carol Lea Spence

Kentucky is the leading producer of hardwood timber in the South and one of the top three producers in the nation. A major contributor to the state's economic health, the forestry sector added nearly $10 billion to Kentucky's economy in 2012, according to the 2012-2013 Kentucky Forestry Economic Impact Report.

The report, recently released by the Department of Forestry in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, states that direct revenue resulted in $6.4 billion with an additional $3.6 billion in indirect and induced contributions. The sector employed 51,928 people, which resulted in $1.25 billion in earned income last year.

"The good thing about the wood industry and the forestry sector overall is that it generates wealth broadly across Kentucky," said Jeff Stringer, professor of silviculture in the UK Department of Forestry and an author of the study.

Kentucky boasts 12.4 million acres of forest, with 75 percent of that acreage being family-owned. There are more than 100,000 individuals in the state who own 10 woodland acres or more, with more than 90 percent of the timber that supplies the forestry industry coming from those woodlands.

"Those lands are distributed throughout the commonwealth, from Pike to Fulton," Stringer said. "The industries are distributed across the state as well. So woodland owners in every part of the state have the ability to participate in this economic engine."

The forestry sector covers a wide range of industries that include logging, paper production and conversion, and a diversity of wood and finished or secondary product businesses, such as manufacturers of furniture, trim, flooring and barrels. These industries include 708 individual facilities located in 109 Kentucky counties.

Logging is the smallest component in the sector, directly employing 2,276, not including owner/operators. In 2012, it had a direct economic impact of $164 million. Though small, the logging industry plays a pivotal role in supplying timber sources for the entire sector.

Solid wood manufacturing, which includes lumber mills and component manufacturers, contributed $3.68 billion to the economy. Paper manufacturing had direct revenues of $3.7 billion with $900 million from pulp and paper production and $2.8 billion from paper converts that include packaging and industrial and writing paper, but does not include printers. Total impact attributed to paper was $5.4 billion in 2012, according to the report.

"Paper consumption in the U.S. is predicted to continue to decrease at about a 3 percent clip over the next five to 10 years. That's paper overall, and includes packaging, cardboard, writing paper and newsprint," Stringer said. "Our factories in Kentucky don't produce newsprint. A mill in Wickliffe produces heavier cover stock paper and one in Hawesville makes copier paper. As long as greeting cards are being made and magazines are printed, our industries in Kentucky are OK. That's why we predict pulpwood production to be fairly stable."

Annual pulpwood production in the state remained at nearly 993,000 tons.

Though the economic contributions of the state's forestry sector are significant, the country's soft economy and slow housing starts in 2012 caused a contraction of 3.7 percent compared to 2011. The 2012 output of 593 million board feet is significantly below the Kentucky high of 1.1 billion board feet produced in 1999. That translates to a loss of 942 jobs and a drop of $256 million in revenue. Manufacturers of paper products were the hardest hit, dropping 4.7 percent.

Current data on forest inventories indicate growth still exceeds removals in Kentucky forests, but timber quality shows a different picture. There has been a 38 percent decrease in the percent of high quality trees in Kentucky, from 20.7 percent of the timber volume in 2004 to 12.9 percent in 2011.

The U.S. Forest Service predicts that there will be continuing demand for hardwood, but also potential shortages in the future, not only nationally, but globally. While most of the forest products produced in Kentucky are consumed domestically, exports do play an important part in some industries.

"Kentucky has the ability, because our forests are very diverse, to produce a wide range of quality hardwood species. That positions us well," Stringer said. "What our industry has to be able to do is to maintain their competitiveness in a global market. They have to be able to grow to encompass exporting and position themselves to participate in global markets, because that's where it's all headed. I think that's the biggest challenge facing our forestry sector. But I legitimately think we can meet that challenge."

Winchester Man Biking Cross Country

By Casey Castle
The Winchester Sun

On the afternoon of April 3, Winchester native Michael McGuire's friend dropped him off at the pier in Ventura, Calif. There, McGuire dipped his toe in the Pacific Ocean, got on his bike and headed east. On his way, he passed a sign in Bishop, Calif., that marks 3,652 miles to Provincetown, Mass.

Some time next month, McGuire will reach the Atlantic Ocean, completing a coast-to-coast trek entirely on a bicycle.

While crossing the continent by bike has always been something he's wanted to do, McGuire said he would have been stupid to do so without at least some fundraising effort. And what better to benefit than something personal? "My grandfather has both wet and dry macular degeneration," he said. "It's a pretty common thing for older people. They get into their 80s and their eyes start to fall apart."

McGuire said his grandfather likes to read the Bible, but hasn't been able to see well enough to read in nearly a decade.

So McGuire printed business cards to hand out during his ride and direct people to his Web site, www.coastto-coastformaculargeneration.com. Donations can be made there directly to fight blindness.org.

As of now, McGuire is in the midwest — Kansas to be exact — and at $890 of his $5,000 goal.

Well traveled man

McGuire graduated from George Rogers Clark High School in 1989. He joined the Navy right after high school and served in the Persian Gulf War.

He has lived in Mammoth Lakes, Calif., for the past 11 years. He is a member of the band, The Core Shots.

While swinging by Winchester and visiting home would have been a nice stop on his coast-to-coast trip, it just wasn't feasible, he said. "I'll hit St. Louis and Indianapolis, but Winchester didn't play out on the route," McGuire said. "I'm shooting for Massachusetts, and Kentucky would be too far south."

Though his destination — Cape Cod, Mass. — likely won't be in sight until the first week of June, McGuire has had plenty of stops so far. After leaving Ventura and hitting Bishop, he made a stop in Las Vegas and after that, Durango, Colo.

Miles and miles

While he has stayed in a hotel a few times, McGuire carries camping gear and a tent. He rides until dark, sets up camp, then hits the road again come morning. The whole kit weighs about 100 lbs. he said, but that hasn't slowed him down too much. He shoots for about 8-10 hours of riding a day.

How far that gets him depends on the elements.

"If I have a headwind, it will take all day long to do 50 miles. I've done 110 miles in a day on my best day," he said. "If I'm struggling, I have to push through. If I have a tail wind, I'll just keep going."

To chronicle the trip, McGuire has set up a blog www.coastto-coastformaculargeneration.com, and updates his Facebook page as well. Both sites have pictures of his trip, most of which are of his bike and supplies leaning against different landmarks.

The trip itself McGuire is funding himself. The donations he's asking for will go directly to fund eye disease research.

"I created a Facebook event — it's an open event, 'Coast to Coast Bicycle Ride for Macular Degeneration,'" he said. "Everyone can join up. They can tune in and see where I'm at."

FINAL AGREEMENT IN MAKING

Century Aluminum Reaches Power Company Milestone

By Chuck Stinnett
The Henderson Gleaner

Century Aluminum Co. and two power companies on Monday announced a milestone in their quest to reach a deal that would allow Century to import power on the open market and keep its 650-employee smelter at Hawesville open.

Century's CEO said the tentative agreement could serve as "a first step" for securing affordable power to help keep Rio Tinto Alcan's 500-employee Sebree smelter, which Century is preparing to buy, in operation.

Century Aluminum of Kentucky, Big Rivers Electric Corp. and Kenergy Corp. said they have reached "a tentative agreement on the framework" for a deal through which Big Rivers and Kenergy will buy electricity on the open market and pass it through to Century at the market price plus additional costs incurred by the two power companies in delivering that power.

Ordinarily, electric customers are required to buy power from their local utility company, which operates as a state-regulated monopoly.

Unhappy with the rates charged by Henderson-based power generator Big Rivers, Century's Hawesville smelter last August served a 12-month notice of the termination of its electricity contract. (Alcan's Sebree smelter, which is also served by Big Rivers, followed suit with its own termination notice in late January.)

Aluminum smelters use enormous amounts of electricity, and without a source for power, Century would have to close the Hawesville smelter effective Aug. 20, when its power contract expires.

Big Rivers President and CEO Mark Bailey has said his company and Henderson-based Kenergy Corp. (which distributes Big Rivers' power to individual customers) last year offered to negotiate an arrangement through which Century could remain in operation using presumably lower-priced electricity purchased on the open market.

Bailey said one requirement was that such an arrangement not cost Big Rivers and Kenergy's customers any more than the already sizable proposed rate increase they are facing as Big Rivers seeks to make up for the loss of Century, its largest customer (and, later, the loss of Alcan's smelter).

Century instead had legislation introduced in the Kentucky General Assembly this year that would have given large industrial electric customers such as aluminum smelters the right under state law to buy power from anybody.

That effort resulted in a noisy public quarrel that eventually resulted in Gov. Steve Beshear writing to the CEOs of Century and Big Rivers on Feb. 20, insisting that they negotiate a deal rather than seek what he called "a political solution to a business problem."

The legislation failed to come up for a vote before the General Assembly's session ended in March. Century, Big Rivers and Kenergy have been negotiating since then.

"To get to this point is monumental," Big Rivers' Bailey said Monday after the tentative framework for a deal was announced.

However, a final agreement still must be hammered out and submitted for review to their respective boards, the Kentucky Public Service Commission (which regulates most utility companies in the state), the federal Rural Utilities Service (to which Big Rivers owes $210 million) and others.

In their joint announcement, Century, Big Rivers and Kenergy said they "intend to move as expeditiously as possible to finalize the agreement" before the Hawesville smelter's power contract expires Aug. 20.

"As with anything, if there is a will, there is a way," Bailey said.

Ultimately, Century — which on Monday also announced a definitive agreement to buy Alcan's Sebree smelter — and Big Rivers/Kenergy must address an arrangement for getting electricity to the Sebree plant after its power contract expires Jan. 31, 2014.

"We've not been asked to deal with that (yet)," Bailey said. "The framework we've reached is specific to Hawesville. However, if there is a request, we'd be happy to discuss that relative to Sebree, too."

He added: "I think the framework (of the Hawesville smelter arrangement) would be applicable."

Century president and CEO Michael Bless said in a statement that the Hawesville "will be the first step toward obtaining market priced power" for Sebree.

LBL Extends Deadline For School Field Trips Grants

Educators interested in helping students learn in Land Between The Lakes (LBL) "outdoor classrooms" may apply for one of LBL's Educational Field Trip Grants for the 2013-2014 school year. The deadline for the field trip grant application has been extended to May 17, 2013.

The grants are available to public school districts within 100 miles of LBL. A field trip to LBL offers a great opportunity for teachers to provide visual activity-based learning for students with alternative learning styles. The grant helps teachers and parents cover costs for transportation, facility admission fees, and dorm rental during the 2013-2014 school

"Our programs offer students a hands-on experience to physically connect with subjects they are learning in school," said Richard Lomax, LBL Environmental Education Specialist. "A field trip to Land Between The Lakes reinforces students' understanding of their classroom studies. Plus, we work hard to make learning fun for both the teachers and students!"

For more information about LBL's Educational Field Trip Grant, visit www.friendsofblb.org and click on Education Resources or call 270-924-2091. Selected classes will be posted on the Web site by June 30, 2013.

Special Session On Legislative Redistricting Is Very Possible

By Jack Brammer
and Beth Musgrave
Lexington Herald-Leader

Gov. Steve Beshear has indicated that he is likely to call a special legislative session this year to redraw the boundaries of state legislative districts.

"I hope to deal with redistricting sometime before the next regular session in January so that it will not become a distraction when we're preparing the budget for the commonwealth for the next two years," Beshear said. "I will continue to discuss this possibility with legislative leaders."

Beshear's comments came after House Speaker Greg Stumbo told him in a letter Tuesday that the Democratic-controlled House "stands ready" to tackle redistricting if he should decide to call a special session.

Lawmakers are not scheduled to meet again in session until the 2014 General Assembly begins in January. Only the governor can call a special session and set its agenda.

"I believe this is an issue better resolved sooner than later," Stumbo said in his letter to Beshear. "We need to avoid costly litigation that, no matter how it is decided, will end with the same result: new legislative districts for the House and Senate."

Several Northern Kentucky officials and residents filed a lawsuit last week in federal court in Covington to compel the General Assembly to finish redistricting before November.

Boone County Clerk Kenney Brown, three Northern Kentucky judge-executives, some members of the Tea Party movement and others said they feel underrepresented in the legislature.

They argue that lawmakers failed in the last two sessions to properly redraw House and Senate district boundaries to reflect population changes in the previous decade. An increase in population from 2000 to 2010 in Northern Kentucky means the area should have more representatives, they contend.

The lawsuit contends that a judge should redraw the districts if the General Assembly does not complete the task before Nov. 4, which would allow candidates for the 2014 election to meet a one-year residency requirement to live in the district they represent.

Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, reminded Beshear in his letter Tuesday that the Democratic-controlled House approved a redistricting plan in this year's session but the Republican-controlled Senate did not consider the issue.

The General Assembly approved a redistricting plan in 2012, but the Kentucky Supreme Court rejected the plan after a challenge to its constitutionality by House Republicans and Sen. Kathy Stein, D-Lexington.

Stumbo argued in his letter to Beshear that the current House plan "meets every point called for in the 2012 Kentucky Supreme Court ruling."

He added that it is "absolutely crucial that both the House and Senate be on the same page" before Beshear calls them back to the Capitol for a special session to make sure it is as short as possible. A special session would cost taxpayers more than $60,000 a day.

It appears the two chambers remain at loggerheads over the issue.

Senate President Robert Stivers, R-Manchester, said in an e-mail Tuesday that the House sent the Senate its redistricting plan this year "so late in the session that they would have forced us to change the schedule by adding days and costs to the taxpayer."

He said it was "mathematically impossible for the Senate, using the House's flawed numbers," to adhere to the court ruling that limited the number of counties lawmakers could split between multiple Senate districts.

"It is a shame, but not unexpected given their past actions, that the House now chooses to rewrite history by continuing their games of gotcha politics," said Stivers. "The Senate will not be so vindictive. We stand ready to do our duty upon the call of the governor."

The two chambers traditionally have agreed to adopt each other's redistricting plan without making changes.

Program To Assist Arthritis Patients

As part of National Arthritis Month, the Kentucky Department for Public Health (DPH) and the Kentucky Department for Aging and Independent Living (DAIL) are encouraging Kentuckians to take part in the Walk With Ease Program.

Walk With Ease is a walking program to reduce pain, discomfort and improve the quality of life for people with arthritis and other chronic diseases.

Research has consistently shown that walking for exercise improves arthritis pain, fatigue, strength, balance and quality of life. Yet, according to a report released today by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), 70 percent of Kentuckians with arthritis walk less than the recommended 90 minutes a week and 55 percent do not walk at all.

"National Arthritis Month gives us an opportunity to recognize the high prevalence of arthritis in Kentucky and encourage more people suffering from arthritis to participate in Walk With Ease," said Dr. Stephanie Mayfield, DPH commissioner. "Physical activity relieves arthritis pain, and this program provides the necessary resources and support individual's need to get started and continue to consistently manage the disease."

Walk With Ease is a guided program developed by the Arthritis Foundation that assists participants in developing successful walking routines and helps them stay motivated to continue walking. The program emphasizes support, information and tools to help individuals meet their physical activity goals and is specifically designed for people with arthritis and other chronic conditions.

Trail Town Will Benefit Our City

According to the Merriam-Webster Dictionary, the definition of the word scoff is, "an expression of scorn, derision, or contempt." As a verb, the definition is "to show contempt by derisive acts or language."

Dawson Springs citizens should be happy their town will be designated the first trail town in the state of Kentucky tomorrow.

Many of its citizens are happy. But then there are those who don't care, and then there are those who scoff at the designation.

There's not much that can be done with those who don't care.

However, to those who scoff, please, either become as the ones who don't care and say nothing or become as those of us who do care about our town and appreciate the hard work being done by a few to better our community.

The trail town designation is important to Dawson Springs. We've heard about tourism in our town's past. We've seen Dawson Springs as a coal mining town. We even saw Dawson Springs become an industrial community for a while.

Those days are also past it seems, although we can still help to get an industry here in the old Buckhorn building.

The days of tourism of old are past, but days of a new kind of tourism can come to pass.

Please, help our community. Don't scoff or allow scoffers to downgrade what being a trail town can mean.

Proverbs 29:8-9 says, "Mockers stir up a city, but the wise turn away anger. If a wise person goes to court with a fool, the fool rages and scoffs, and there is no peace."

It's easy to scoff at hitchhiking posts, but those hitchhiking posts represent trail riders. Those hitchhiking posts represent hikers and campers. Those hitchhiking posts represent dollars coming to our town. Now who of you scoffers laugh at the mighty dollar?

There will always be scoffers. There will always be those who don't care. Hopefully there will also always be those who do care and will work to make our community "A Very Special Place."

The Derby for the Darby Luncheon was held Saturday for the second consecutive year. This makes it an annual event for what is hoped to be many years.

The luncheon is one way to celebrate Derby Day right here in Dawson Springs. Everyone who attends seems to thoroughly enjoy it. Perhaps it can grow even larger in the future.

Several local golfers visited two Kentucky State Parks last week and enjoyed a few holes (and completely disliked a few others).

Phillip Parker, Joe Roberts, Dwight Bruce, Phillip Bruce, Donnie Knight, Teddy Taylor and this writer played 36 holes at Dale Hollow State Resort Park on May 1.

We then traveled to Somerset where we stayed for three nights and played at General Burnside Island State Park on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Some would say we are nuts, but we do enjoy golf. We played 45 holes Thursday, 36 holes Friday and 18 holes Saturday before driving back to Dawson Springs (with a stop at Outback in Bowling Green).

The weather was cooperative with the only rain coming Saturday morning. After a few sprinkles during our round, a steady rain began on the 17th green.

The golf course at Pennyville could be as nice as either of these — and they are both pretty nice public courses. We all agreed we like Burnside the best for golf and Dale Hollow the best for scenery.

All the course at Pennyville needs is the maintenance on the course these two receive.

That's the part of any state park golf trip that makes me sad. I feel as if the golf course at Pennyville is treated worse than a stepchild by the state of Kentucky.

What a shame.

COMMENTARY Politics Have Really Changed

By Lee H. Hamilton
Director
Center on Congress
Indiana University

When two senators recently got into a spat over whether the Boston Marathon bombings were being politicized, the news was everywhere within minutes. Reams of commentary quickly followed. In the maneuvering over gun-control legislation, every twist and turn was instantly reported and then endlessly debated. As the effects of the federal sequester start to make themselves felt, outlets in every medium — print, television, online — are carrying both the news and the inevitable partisan sniping over its meaning.

This is political reality today, and when people ask me how politics has changed since I first ran for Congress in 1964, it's the first thing that comes to mind. Back then, when you spoke to the Rotary in a small town, you were speaking to a few members of the Rotary. Today, you might well be speaking to the world. A debate on Capitol Hill back then might or might not have made the news, but even if it did, days could go by before the rest of the country reacted. Today, the response is instantaneous, often hot-blooded, and almost inconceivably far-reaching.

It's not just the sheer proliferation and aggressiveness of the media that have ratcheted up the intensity of political life. Almost every

Dogs Are A Responsibility

Every canine — from the toy chihuahua to the most massive mastiff — is a descendant of one of nature's most widely successful predators — Canis lupus, or simply, the wolf. As most know, wolves are viscous pack animals and cunning carnivores. And their DNA still remains in your delicate shih tzu or the family-friendly labrador.

Recent events have borne this out. Just last week, a Union County girl was mauled by a pit bull. The 2-year-old suffered severe facial lacerations, but will be okay, The Associated Press reports. The dog, however, was destroyed, and the owner faces criminal charges.

Inside the city of Marion, also recently, it has been reported that a pit bull attacked and critically wounded a neighbor's toy dog. The smaller animal lived, with hundreds of dollars of veterinary bills agreeably paid by the owner of the pit bull, which was euthanized. Furthermore, in a rural area of Crittenden County, a young child was grabbed by a German shepherd and dragged for a distance. The child, reportedly, was not seriously hurt, but the case could end up in court.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 4.5 million people — equivalent to every Kentucky resident — are bitten by dogs each year. These family pets can also take down livestock, kill their feline counterparts and create a nuisance by barking, digging, carting away tools and toys, chewing a neighbor's mail and generally snooping. We can think of no more loyal animal companion than a dog, but they can still be a confounding problem.

Dogs are a responsibility, not a privilege. They require proper training, care and, importantly, attention. Inside Marion, there exists a leash law requiring owners to keep their animal penned, inside or tethered. According to the CDC, of the 238 deadly

Workers Say Thanks

Dear Editor,

I just wanted to say thank you to all who helped with the Darby luncheon. It was a tremendous amount of work for all of the volunteers, and I cannot tell you all how much I appreciate it. You al-

I think we had a very successful event, and it is a great fund-raiser for the preservation of the Darby House. We dog attacks over the last 20 years, more than 80 percent of the incidents involved unrestrained pets.

Further, some breeds do not belong in the confined spaces a town offers — particularly sizeable, aggressive breeds like pit bulls, rottweilers, boxers, dobermans and German shepherds.

Particularly, pit bulls and pit mixes — often chosen simply as a trendy accessory — do not fare well being couped up and left largely unattended. They, alone, have been responsible for 47 percent of fatal dog attacks over the last 30 years, according to some reports.

Yet, pit bulls and other dogs having earned a bad reputation can join the collies, beagles and golden retrievers of the world as “the perfect pet.” But it takes work, responsibility and the right set of circumstances. Even border collies—one of the smartest, hardest-working breeds—can be a recipe for disaster. They need lots of attention and challenges, and they view children as merely something else to be herded...not an ideal mix for the urban family.

When it comes to pets, be as selective as you would be when buying your first new car. Learn your breeds. Realize your circumstances and limitations. Kick the tires. Then, when you’ve signed the paperwork, there’s no reason with the proper care that Fido cannot be as reliable as the Buick.

Hilltoppers Are Inducted Into Kentucky Music Hall Of Fame

The Hilltoppers, one of the top vocal groups of the 1950s, was inducted into the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame April 12 in Lexington.

Known for their hit “P.S. I Love You” and for their collegiate attire of beanies, letter sweaters, gray flannels and white bucks, The Hilltoppers got their start in April 1952 when musician and WKU alumnus Billy Vaughn asked WKU students Jimmy Sacca, Don McGuire and Seymour Spiegelman to help him record his composition “Trying.” The song, recorded in Van Meter Auditorium and released in May 1952, reached No. 7 on the Billboard charts that fall.

McGuire and Sacca attended the induction ceremony.

From 1952 to 1957, The Hilltoppers charted 19 hits on Billboard, half in the top 10 including “Trying,” “I’d Rather Die Young,” “P.S. I Love You,” “To Be Alone,” “Love Walked In,” “Till Then,” “From the Vine Came the Grape,” “Only You” and “Marianne.”

Murray Man Falls Short In Quest For New Record

By John Wright
Murray Ledger & Times

Murray martial arts instructor Tung Dinh seemed to have everything going well early Wednesday morning in his attempt to set a new world record for pull-ups in 24 hours.

He had just passed the 3,000 mark and seemed well on the way to achieving the 4,100 goal he had set, which would actually be 80 more than what was needed to take a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records. However, it was at about 5:30 a.m. that Dinh said he knew this bid — one of many world-record attempts covering a variety of fitness exercises he has made the past several years — was going to end unsuccessfully.

“When I had ran 100 miles in 24 hours (in 2000), that was endurance. All I had to do was run. When I did sit-ups (30,000 in 30 hours in 2005 and 35,425 in 35 hours in 2010), that was endurance. This was the first one I had tried that also involved strength, and I wasn’t ready for that,” said the man known affectionately to most in Murray as “Master Dinh” Wednesday afternoon as he assessed his attempt. “I think I got dehydrated. I started cramping up real badly. Eventually, it got to the point that I couldn’t pull up anymore.

“I think, at the beginning, I also was going too fast.

Instead of looking at this as a marathon, I was looking at it as a sprint. We were ahead of pace by 600 when I stopped.”

Dinh had plenty of help for this attempt. Several black-belt students of his taekwondo classes stayed throughout the night to execute pull-ups alongside their instructor. Several people from throughout the community also visited Dinh’s Quest Fitness facility to offer encouragement throughout the attempt, including Murray State Head Men’s Basketball Coach Steve Prohm.

They had come to see Dinh do what he had done successfully on three previous occasions, watch a Murray resident take a spot in the record book.

“You know, there will be a next time,” said Bridgett Keller of Quest, who stayed with Dinh the entire time he made his attempt, starting at 10 a.m. Tuesday. “We still had classes going on around this and that made it fun for those students I think.

“In the end, though, it was just his body. He had given all he could, and he was pushing so hard.”

Keller said Dinh was on a pace where he had to execute four correctly-performed pull-ups (executed with an overhanded grip on the bar, not underhanded as with chin-ups) per minute. Dinh’s pattern was to perform three pull ups then wait 30 seconds for the next three.

Maroons Take District Contest From Panthers

The Panther baseball team was never out of the game April 22 against Madisonville-North Hopkins at Riverside Park. The Maroons beat the Panthers that day 8-3.

However, it was a completely different story Monday at Madisonville. The Panthers were shellacked 25-1 by the Maroons in what was the worst defeat this season.

"The team did not play very good defense, and the offense was just as bad," Panther head coach Michael Lee said.

After the Panthers went three up and three down in the first, the Maroons put three runs on the board.

In the second the Panthers sent three players to the plate and they all fanned.

The Maroons blew the game out with 13 runs in their half of the second. The next inning was almost as bad with the Maroons scoring eight for a 24-0 lead.

In the bottom of the fourth the Maroons scored one more to lead 25-0.

The Panthers scored their lone run in the top of the fifth. Gage Brewer led off with a single. After an out, Alan Black walked and T.J. Puckett singled to load the bases. Colton Chapple then singled home

Brewer with two outs.

The only other hit for the Panthers was a double in the fourth off Jacob Adams' bat.

Brewer and Chapple pitched for the Panthers. Many of the runs were unearned due to seven errors from the defense.

"I never know which team is going to show up," Lee said. "Some days the boys hang in there and keep their heads up. They can play ball with the best of them. But other games, they get down and stay down. If we can learn to overcome obstacles and not get our morale down, we can hold our own against other teams."

The Panthers were scheduled to play Tuesday at Riverside Park against Webster County. (The score was not known at press time.)

McLean County and Whitesville Trinity are scheduled to visit Riverside Park on Thursday and Friday, respectively. The Panthers then play at McLean County Monday and return home Tuesday to face Lyon County.

RIVERSIDE PARK CONFINES NOT FRIENDLY TO HOME TEAM

Trigg Scores In Every Inning To Win 21-2

The friendly confines of Riverside Park weren't so friendly to the Panthers April 30. The Trigg County Wildcats visited and put it to the Panthers 21-2 in a five-inning contest mercifully stopped by the 10-run rule.

The Wildcats scored in each inning, putting 11 on the board in the first with only three hits. The Panthers committed eight errors in the inning which contributed to 10 unearned runs.

Trigg County then scored two in the second; five in the third; two in the fourth; and one in the fifth.

Meanwhile, the Panthers only had two base runners in the first four innings on two walks.

The Panthers finally broke through in the fifth with two runs on three hits and two hit batsmen.

Dakota Jones and Alan Black took first and second base when they were hit by pitches. Gage Brewer and Reed Smiley followed with singles to drive in the runs.

Colton Chapple and Matt Snell pitched for the Panthers.

The loss dropped the Panthers' record to 3-13 while Trigg County improved to 18-9, the second best record in the region.

"Our defense was subpar and our offense sputtered," head coach Michael Lee said. "We did not come close to playing the type of baseball we are capable of playing. We have to keep battling and not hang our heads."

House Bill Will Toughen Child Pornography Laws

Gov. Steve Beshear ceremonially signed House Bill 39 on April 17, giving law enforcement in Kentucky a valuable tool in fighting crimes involving children and the Internet. The measure helps child pornography statutes catch up to current technology, particularly where a perpetrator is using “cloud computing” that allows child pornography images to be viewed but not actually located on a computer’s hard drive.

“In order to combat child pornography and protect our most vulnerable citizens, it’s critical that our laws evolve with technology,” Gov. Beshear said. “This law does that by allowing law enforcement to arrest persons who intentionally view these images, even if they don’t physically possess the pictures.”

House Bill 39 also prohibits registrants on the Sex Offender Registry from intentionally photographing minors without the written consent of the parent, unless the registrant is the parent or guardian, and allows for asset forfeiture in these cases.

In addition, the law gives the Kentucky State Police commissioner administrative subpoena power in very limited cases when a child may be in danger.

“We have to be extra vigilant when it comes to keeping the law up to date as technology changes, and nowhere is that more important than in our children’s safety,” said Rep. Kevin Sinnette, the bill’s sponsor. “I sponsored this legislation because I want to make sure that the law is airtight when it comes to prosecuting child pornographers. I hope it proves to be a valuable tool for law enforcement.”

Kentucky State Police Commissioner Rodney Brewer noted that April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month, a time to raise awareness about child abuse and neglect, and that the Kentucky Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) Task Force is located within the Kentucky State Police Electronic Crime Branch.

As part of its role on the task force, Brewer said, the Electronic Crime Branch conducts investigations, makes Internet safety awareness presentations and provides digital forensic services for law enforcement agencies throughout the commonwealth.

Kentucky Fleet Receives First Electric Vehicles

First lady Jane Beshear welcomed the first electric vehicles into the state vehicle fleet April 23 in a ceremony that kicked off a day of Earth Day activities. Energy and Environment Cabinet Secretary Len Peters, Finance and Administration Cabinet Lori H. Flanery, and Division for Air Quality director John Lyons joined the first lady in the ribbon-cutting.

The first lady led the ceremony surrounded by four new Chevy Volts and two charging stations that were recently installed outside the headquarters for the Department for Environmental Protection. The vehicles and charging stations will be used by state workers conducting official business on behalf of the commonwealth.

“Plug-in hybrids bring us one step closer to fulfilling the goals of the Governor’s Energy Plan,” said Beshear. “These new vehicles get more miles per gallon and produce fewer tailpipe emissions than any conventional vehicle in the state fleet.” Beshear added, “Improving the efficiency of our fleet makes good economic sense, and it’s better for our environment.”

Among its recommendations, the Governor’s Energy

Plan calls for a 30 percent improvement in fuel economy of the state vehicle fleet by 2015 and a 50 percent improvement by 2025. The plan also calls for utilizing alternative fuels and technologies like plug-in hybrids, to reduce Kentucky’s dependence on foreign petroleum.

The new vehicles combine hybrid and electric plug-in technology with a gasoline-powered generator, resulting in fewer tailpipe emissions and more miles per gallon than comparable conventional vehicles.

According to the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, more than 132 million miles are driven every day on Kentucky roads. “Transportation is one of the fastest-growing sources of air pollution,” said Energy and Environment Cabinet Secretary Len Peters. “When operated in electric mode only, plug-in vehicles like the Chevy Volt produce zero tailpipe emissions. That’s good news for air quality, especially in urban areas where smog-forming emissions are high.”

Purchase of the vehicles and charging stations was made possible by grant funding administered by the Kentucky Clean Fuels Coalition.

USDA Seeks Applications To Boost Rural Economy

Applications are being accepted from qualified nonprofit and public organizations to provide loans to support rural businesses and community development groups, Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced last week.

Funding, which is intended to spark business expansion and create jobs, will be made available through USDA’s Intermediary Lending Program. The USDA lends money to economic development intermediaries who in turn relend the funds as commercial loans to rural businesses that might not otherwise be able to obtain such financing. The repayment of the ultimate recipients’ loans allows the intermediary to continue to make more loans to new recipients.

Funds are used to assist with financing business and economic development activity to create or retain jobs in disadvantaged and remote communities. Intermediaries are encouraged to work with state and regional representatives and in partnership with other public and private organizations that can provide complimentary resources.

To Your Good Health

By Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Husband Thrashes About During Sleep

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My 73-year-old husband has, in the past year, been jerking during his sleep. His movements are quite wild at times. He has fallen out of bed three times during his "fighting" dreams. He dreams he is in a fight at work, playing football or shooting things. Just last night, it was killing mice. He jerks with his arms and legs.

I don't attempt to wake him, as one time he was on the verge of striking me. I did yell his name three times, and he finally woke up.

He has had two sleep tests and was told he has "half sleep apnea." What does that mean?

He takes no sleeping aids. I have never heard that such movements are a sign of sleep apnea. -- D.S.

ANSWER: A good bet is that your husband has a condition called periodic limb movements of sleep. For many, such movements are bending of the big toe and ankle. For others, it's jerking of the legs and arms. Most often the person doesn't waken and has no recollection of what went on during the night. The bed partner and the condition of the blankets give testimony to what occurred during sleep.

If the person doesn't have daytime fatigue, then this disorder isn't considered a sleep problem for him or her. It is for the one who shares the bed.

Sometimes periodic limb movements of sleep occur with another problem, restless leg syndrome. That's a creepy-crawly sensation in the legs that comes on in the evening when sitting or in bed. The person is compelled to get up and move around to quell the feeling.

A warm bath before going to bed might calm your husband's movements. Decreasing the amount of caffeine he drinks and doing the same for all forms of tobacco could bring nocturnal peace for you and him.

If the situation doesn't clear, then Mirapex or Requip, two Parkinson's disease medicines, can put an end to the nighttime martial arts. Do tell his doctor about this. Periodic limb movements of sleep are, at times, associated with iron deficiency. I have no idea what "half sleep apnea" means.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Every now and then, my eyelid twitches. I don't think it's due to me being tired, because it can happen when I am wide awake in the morning. And I don't think it's due to stress -- I love my work. Furthermore, I don't drink any caffeinated beverages. What do you think is the significance of this? -- H.R.

ANSWER: Nearly everyone has had a twitchy eyelid at some time in life. It's not a sign of illness. It's not something that lasts for any length of time. Fatigue, stress and caffeinated beverages all have been implicated as causes. But most people with a twitchy lid are like you; they have and do none of these things.

A washcloth soaked in warm water and placed on the involved, closed lid for a few minutes generally can stop the twitching. Or gentle massage of the involved, closed lid also can end it.

If it continues and lasts for longer periods, then a doctor has to be consulted.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him or request an order form of available health newsletters at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

'Friday Night' Kicks Off June 14 In Madisonville

The city of Madisonville, in partnership with Baptist Health and the Hopkins County Tourist and Convention Commission, has announced the 13th anniversary of the free downtown concert series and street festival, Friday Night Live, kicks off June 14 around the courthouse square in downtown Madisonville. This summer's Friday Night Live event takes place June 14, July 12 and Aug. 9 with activities from 6 to 10 p.m. each evening.

The 2013 edition of Friday Night Live will include some of the favorite activities from previous years, including the Hopkins County UK Alumni 5K road race and 1 1/2 mile fun walk in June; the Motorcycle Cruise-in and Show sponsored by the Hopkins County Central Archery Club in July; and the Classic Car Show organized by the Show-N-Go Car Club in August. In addition, the semi-final round of "Let Freedom Sing" competition sponsored by First United Bank will be held in June as will the Crime Stoppers annual campaign kick-off.

All three Friday Night Live events will also feature the Fire Department's Kids Obstacle Course, vendor booths and a beer garden sponsored by the Madisonville-Hopkins County Chamber of Commerce.

This year's entertainment will have some familiar groups return as Barry Potter and the Hoscats, Ray Ligon, and The Pat Ballard Band will all perform in June. In addition, Hopkins Countian Boscoe France, the 2012 Guitar Center Battle of the Blues national contest winner, will headline in July. Wrapping up the summer will see the return of Entice, who has been one of the more popular entertainment acts at Friday Night Live over the years. Other entertainment will be announced in the near future.

Information about the upcoming Friday Night Live series, and more information about renting vendor space can be found by visiting www.madisonvillegov.com and checking out the Friday Night Live page that is found under the Community Development tab.
